

Vladimir Turjačanin works as an Associate Professor of Social Psychology at the Department of Psychology, Faculty of Philosophy, University of Banja Luka. He was a Fulbright Visiting Scholar at School of Behavioral & Organizational Sciences, Claremont Graduate University (USA). His professional interests are in the area of group processes, intergroup relations, ethnicity, ethnic relations, nationalism, social identity, gender stereotypes, religious and ethnic prejudice.